

NO CLEVELAND MAN.

For is the Senior Senator from Virginia
a Third-Termer.

LOTTERY MAIL MATTER ORDER.

It will especially interest Postmasters, and possibly "Players"—
Entertainment in Washington for Benefit of Confederates.

WASHINGTON, D. C., November 15.—Special-Senator John W. Daniel is neither a Cleveland man nor a third-termer. In an interview with the distinguished Virginian, published to-day, he said: "Do you think there is anything in the talk about Mr. Cleveland not being a third term?"

The Senator said: "It is the same old thing imaginable."

He stated admitted yesterday that he knows very little about politics since the great election, as he has been at home writing and recuperating from the fatigues of the late campaign. He has, however, had very limited opportunities as to the possibility or probability of a third term for Mr. Cleveland, or to form an opinion as to who the next Democratic presidential standard-bearer will be. He is now on his way to New York on business, and he will be actively engaged in the discharge of his editorial duties, and, perhaps, before long, he may change his mind, at least as to the "abandoning" of a third term.

A RICHMOND SUCCESS.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

NEW YORK, November 15.—The stock speculation was irregular and rather feverish to-day. Business, however, was on a smaller scale than on any previous day of the week, to total sales figures up 134,490 shares, against 257,556 yesterday. In to-day's total Tobacco figures for 25,000, Reading for 25,700, Sugar for 22,600, Manhattan for 15,000, and Burlington and Quincy for 11,700 shares.

At the opening some stocks showed slight gains, while others, notably Manhattan, were weak. Later on the pools in the Grangers supported their favorites, and a firmer tone characterized the trading.

The engagement of $250,000 in gold for shipment to Europe to-morrow, all of which will be withdrawn from the Treasury, did not alarm legitimate holders of stocks, but the professional traders sold rather freely of the Industrial and Standard issues, on the resumption of the outward movement of the metal. This class of operators are looking for still heavier shipments next week, which they hope will bring about liquidations again in the active list.

Bankers are manifesting no concern about the matter, and expect intermediate shipments for the next few weeks, unless the exports of cotton and grain should happen to assume larger proportions. The Treasury gold reserve dropped below the $90,000,000 mark, but excited only a languid interest. Both leather and coal were quiet.

The leather market was in first-class condition. W. H. Shire was at the throat, and Snyder, the senior contractor on the line, was in charge of the train. This was without doubt the best run ever made between the two cities.

Forging Ahead.

(Washington Post.)

"Newspaper efforts for forging to the front," said ex-Congressman Harry L. White, of Virginia, at Chamberlain's. "A ship is in course of construction there now for Mr. Plant, who will operate it between Florida and Havana. It will cost, in the neighborhood of $300,000, and will be completed in the spring. Another vessel, for the Morgan Line, is also being built, and, besides these, there is a large amount of repair work brought to New Orleans, giving constant employment to a big force of workmen. I have no news to report to the public, but I am glad to see that the country has a brighter future or that possesses a more solid basis for industrial development."
